Re: General Counsel Legal Opinion 16-01; Authority of Board of Trustees of Police and Fire Pension Fund to Establish the Jacksonville Police and Fire Pension Fund Senior Staff Voluntary Retirement Plan and Related Legal Issues

Dear Mayor Curry:

This letter is written in response to your recent request for a legal opinion regarding the status of the Jacksonville Police and Fire Pension Fund Senior Voluntary Retirement Plan ("SSVRP") with the understanding that you have been briefed by your Administration as to all pertinent matters concerning the well-being of the City. Because the creation of the SSVRP and the events that unfolded when its existence was discovered predate your term as Mayor, a brief historical account is useful to provide an understanding of the current circumstances.

Furthermore, Mayor, you have inquired as to what the City can do to rectify issues related to the SSVRP. The scope of your authority, as the consolidated government's chief executive and administrative officer, is set forth below.

BRIEF HISTORY

While PFPF Board employees have always participated in, and currently participate in, the City's General Employees Retirement Plan¹, in 2000, the Jacksonville Police and Fire Pension Fund Board of Trustees ("PFPF Board" or "Board") attempted to devise a special defined benefit plan for the interest of a few select employees, by replacing a money purchase retirement account at the time with a proposed defined benefit pension plan that is now known as the SSVRP. The select few employees for which the SSVRP was created decided to not participate in the General Employees Retirement Plan because it would have meant, among other things, that such employees would be unable to continue receiving pension benefits for prior City service.

In 2012, the City (the ultimate insurer and taxing authority responsible for funding all City pension plans) became aware of the SSVRP during one of the City Council Auditor's routine audits.² Shortly thereafter, the City Council Finance Committee Chair requested an opinion from the General Counsel regarding whether the Board was authorized to create the SSVRP. On August 10, 2012, then General Counsel Cindy A. Laquidara issued a binding legal opinion in which she held that the Board was not authorized to create the SSVRP. A copy of General Counsel Legal Opinion 12-03 is attached hereto.

To briefly summarize, that opinion held that: (1) Article 16 (Retirement and Pension Benefits) of the Charter establishes the entire pension system of the Consolidated Government and does not authorize any agency other than the Council to amend existing plans or create new plans, and (2) Article 22 (Jacksonville Police Fire and Pension Board of Trustees) establishes the PFPF Board for the purpose of solely administering the Police and Fire Pension Fund, and not for any other purpose such as creating new or amendatory pension plans or classifications. Further, the opinion found that by the Charter's very own terms (Section 22.07), nothing empowers the Board to amend the provisions of the pension plan "without the approval of the Jacksonville City Council" and that the benefit plan administered by the Board shall be "as established by ordinance or charter provision, or by special act or general law of the legislature...."³

² See pp. 16-20 of Council Auditor's Office Police and Fire Pension Fund Audit, Report #736, dated November 21, 2012.

Following the issuance of the August 2012 binding legal opinion, the General Counsel sent a letter to the PFPF Board Chair in September 2012, indicating the City's surprise to learn that the PFPF Board had created its own new defined benefit pension plan for the benefit of certain select employees, and informing the Board that the SSVRP was not authorized and that the City was seeking to recover all contributions to the SSVRP made with public funds. The General Counsel further directed the Board to terminate any further alleged obligations to the employees. In March 2013, a second letter was sent to the PFPF Board Chair stating:

This is to put the Board of Trustees on notice that the Board is to take action to cease making payments to beneficiaries under the Senior Staff Plan and to cease making contributions to such Plan. In addition, within thirty days of receipt of this letter, please provide to the City a plan for recovery and repayment to the Police Fire and Pension Fund those monies taken from the Police and Fire Pension Fund for funding of the Senior Staff Plan.

Both letters requested numerous specific public records be produced by the Board for the purpose of assisting the City in the reconciliation of funds. Rather than follow the legal advice of their chief legal officer, the City's directives and requests were each ignored by the PFPF Board. The City of Jacksonville's Charter does not authorize the PFPF Board to ignore the binding legal opinions and directions of the General Counsel.

The City Council over time has expressed its opinion on the matter of the SSVRP, passing resolutions in 2012 and 2014 authorizing the Office of General Counsel to commence litigation to determine, among other things, the legal validity of the establishment of the SSVRP.⁴ Additionally, on or around September 4, 2013, during the 2013/14 budget process, the Finance Committee of City Council proposed, and eventually the full City Council approved, a budgetary amendment to reduce the PFPF budget by an amount equivalent to the employer pension contribution the PFPF pays into the SSVRP.

Throughout this time period, pension reform efforts were underway as well as efforts to settle this issue without the need for litigation. While the pension reform efforts were successful in many regards, efforts to resolve the SSVRP dispute were unsuccessful. In fact, during pension reform discussions, Council specifically reserved the right to further dispute the SSVRP matter. Therefore, on November 20, 2015, the City filed suit against the PFPF Board and John Keane⁵, requesting the Court, among other things, to enter a declaratory judgment as to the Board's authority to create the SSVRP. On January 26, 2016, proposed Ordinance 2016-80 was introduced, proposing a potential settlement agreement to resolve the litigation. The Council postponed the bill indefinitely pending further study and consideration of the issues.

CITY AS FUNDING SOURCE AND AUTHORITY TO RECTIFY UNLAWFUL PLAN

In addition to the express Charter requirements designating City Council as the only authorized body to amend or create defined benefit pension plans or classifications in the City's retirement system, a City agency (such as the PFPF) that has no ability to generate revenue and is completely dependent on appropriations and contributions of the City and City employees, cannot lawfully obligate the City to fund a defined benefit pension plan for the agency's employees without City Council approval. This issue is critical due to the nature of defined benefit pension plans. Under state law, defined benefit pension plans obligate the plan sponsor to fund the plan on a sound actuarial basis - which includes the obligation to pay off unfunded actuarial accrued liabilities over a period of not more than 30 years. In essence, defined benefit pension plans involve a form of debt. In the judgment of the City's pension legal counsel, only the entity that is ultimately responsible for paying off the debt has the legal authority to approve the creation of a defined benefit plan. In this case that entity is the City, and the governing body is the City Council.

The City, as the ultimate insurer and taxing authority responsible for funding City pension plans, has the power to halt or modify unlawfully funded pension payouts being made by the City.⁶

BINDING LEGAL AUTHORITY OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL

Section 7.02 of the Jacksonville City Charter provides that the General Counsel shall be the chief legal officer for the entire consolidated government, including its independent agencies. It states further:

Any legal opinion rendered by the general counsel shall constitute the final authority for the resolution or interpretation of any legal issue relative to the entire consolidated government and shall be considered valid and binding in its application unless and until it is overruled or modified by a court of competent jurisdiction or an opinion of the Attorney General of the State of Florida dealing with a matter of solely state law.

⁶ See, e.g., Hill v. City of Los Angeles, 24 Cal.App.3d 18 (Cal. 2d Dist. Ct. App. 1972); Wheeler v. City Santa Ana, 185 P.2d 373 (Cal. 4th Dist. Ct. App. 1947) (finding that the Civil Service Commission erroneously assumed it had power to adopt a rule authorizing payments did not estop the City from discontinuing such payments. "The fact that said commission has operated for a number of years under the interpretation appellants are contending for here cannot be held to affect the present legal situation, for the reason that the exercise of powers by city officers, in excess of their authority for a great length of time, will raise no presumption of a grant to the city of such powers..."); People ex rel. Green v. Wood, 22 How. Pr. 286 (1861). See also Jack M. Beermann, The Public Pension Crisis, 70 Wash. & Lee L. Rev. 3 (2013) ("The government should be viewed as having an interest in closing loopholes that allow abusive practices. In general, government has an interest in protecting the integrity and fairness of programs it administers."); United States v. Borjesson, 92 F.3d 954, 955-56 (9th Cir. 1996) (recognizing as important the government's interest in maintaining integrity and the appearance of integrity in government programs); Donovan v. Fitzsimmons, 778 F.2d 298, 319 (7th Cir. 1985) ("[A]side from protecting the individual beneficiaries of these pension programs, the government in this case clearly has a separate and unique interest in protecting the very integrity, heart and lifeline of the program itself.").

As former General Counsel Fred Franklin stated in 1997, in Legal Advisory Opinion No. 97-1, “[t]he authority of the General Counsel to make binding legal decisions is the mortar that holds the structure of our consolidated government firm.” He further opined that there is no Charter authorization allowing an officer or entity of the Consolidated Government to obtain independent legal counsel to challenge the General Counsel’s determination.

PERPETUAL DISREGARD OF OFFICE OF GENERAL COUNSEL LEGAL ADVICE

The Board’s obstinacy has not just been in regards to the creation of SSVRP, but also the Board’s insistence that it has complete authority over its administrative expenses and that, like the SSVRP, the Council has no authority to determine whether the appropriations are reasonable. On three occasions, the Office of General Counsel has issued letters and memoranda explaining that the Board does not have complete autonomy as to all of its financial decisions.⁷

The last memorandum, dated August 28, 2014, advised that not only is the City Charter clear that the City Council, as the legislative body, is the sole governing body vested with the power to appropriate funds to the consolidated government, Florida Statutes and common law support that proposition as well. The memorandum responded to questions raised by the City Council’s Finance Committee as to the penalties and consequences that result from the PFPF Board exceeding the appropriated amount for administrative expenses in its annual budget approved by City Council. The Office of General Counsel advised as to the consequences of expenditures exceeding appropriations without obtaining further City Council approval, advising:

If a PFPF officer or employee exceeds the appropriated amount for administrative expenses in the PFPF’s annual budget approved by City Council, he/she may be subject to the following claims: (i) breach of fiduciary duty, (ii) personal liability for the amount of the unauthorized expense under Section 106.334, Ordinance Code, and (iii) criminal charges for a Class D misdemeanor offense under Section 106.336, Ordinance Code.

Section 106.331, Ordinance Code, prohibits any officer or employee of an independent agency who receives appropriations from Council to expend such money for any purpose that Council has not authorized. Section 106.333, Ordinance Code, makes any contract or other indebtedness in violation of this ordinance null and void.

In addition, as recently as October 2015, the Board approved an amendment to the unauthorized SSVRP to provide for an “excess benefit arrangement,” because Section 415(b) of the Internal Revenue Code establishes a maximum dollar limitation on annual payments to a beneficiary from a qualified defined benefit pension fund, and John Keane’s purported SSVRP pension benefit exceeds the allowable amount. At that meeting, the Office of General Counsel requested that the Board defer any action on the excess benefit arrangement, questioning the Board’s authority as to such action in several regards. The Board once again ignored the Office of General Counsel.

PERSONAL LIABILITY

The legal opinions of the General Counsel bind each and every officer of the City and its independent agencies as well as any and all employees. Any person who acts inconsistently with these opinions, particularly any person who expends or authorizes expenditures of any public funds in contravention of these opinions and in dereliction of the City’s laws, risks personal liability. Section 22.05(b), City Charter providing protection for PFPF Board members “when relying upon the advice of any attorney employed by the board,” does not shield the PFPF Board members who rely on the advice of an attorney who disagrees with a binding legal opinion of the General Counsel.⁸

A General Counsel opinion loses both its value and integrity as binding if an independent agency such as the PFPF Board can ignore such advice merely because another attorney disagrees with the General Counsel. Such a reading is anathema to the Charter and in direct contradiction to the very founding documents of the City.

CONCLUSION

In light of the above, it is my opinion that the unauthorized SSVRP pension benefits should be immediately discontinued. While a court could determine the participants are only entitled to a return of their employee contributions, the equities of the situation may warrant providing the plan participants with a prospective pension benefit for their years of service that is equitably equivalent to the amount they would have received had they participated in the City’s only existing and legitimately authorized retirement plan (other than the Police and Fire Pension Fund Plan), the General Employees Retirement Plan. Therefore, it is my opinion that in the event that the unauthorized SSVRP pension benefits are discontinued, the plan participants be provided retirement benefits as if they had been participating in the

City's General Employees Retirement Plan during the time period that they were participating in the unauthorized SSVRP.

Per your inquiry Mayor, the City, as the ultimate insurer and taxing authority responsible for funding City pension plans, has the power to halt or modify unlawfully funded pension payouts being made by the City. As the chief executive and administrative officer of the consolidated government⁹, you have the authority to affect such directive in accordance with all applicable Federal, State and Local Law.

Please do not hesitate to contact me with any other questions or concerns.

Sincerely,

Jason R. Gabriel
General Counsel
