WJXT Announces HaLeigh Cummings: Into Thin Air Podcast and News4Jax I-Team Special Reports

WJXT-TV Investigative Reporter, Jennifer Waugh, chronicles the mysterious disappearance of 5 year old HaLeigh Cummings ten years ago

Jacksonville, FL: WJXT announces a new four episode podcast HaLeigh Cummings: Into Thin Air, an original true-crime podcast. Jennifer Waugh sets the scene of a little girl from Putnam County who vanished from bed. She was sleeping right next to her little brother. Hundreds searched for her, but she was never found.

WJXT VP and General Manager Bob Ellis says, "Ten years ago this story captivated North Florida as details emerged after HaLeigh's disappearance. A decade later, there's still more to learn about what happened. Jennifer Waugh was a major part of the coverage for the entire city when this happened ten years ago, and she's spent the past several months investigating to provide fresh perspective with news stories for all platforms of News4JAX, including a riveting podcast."

In addition, the week leading up to the 10th year of HaLeigh's disappearance, lead investigators broke their silence during a series of special reports. For the first time ever, they reveal their theories about who they believe is responsible for HaLeigh's disappearance and where they think she is now.
